Hancock leaders endorse Winter's education goals

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Several Hancock County educators, civic leaders and government officials endorse Gov. William Winter's legislative efforts to establish public kindergartens and require all youths attend school.

Mississippi is the only state in America which does not have a compulsory education law and public kindergartens.

The state once had a compulsory Alma, Bay Mayor Larry Bennett's secretary; Rev. Bernard Keller, St. Rose de Lima Parish pastor; and Phillip Williams, also of concerned citizens, all of Bay St. Louis; and Theresa James of Clement Harbor. Retired Spring Volunteer Program director, organized the event.

Those at the meeting publicly endorsing the governor's efforts to encourage passage of the education laws are Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville, Bennett, Rep. Ishah Fredricks of Gulfport, Bay Catholic Elementary Kindergarten Director Connie Helzmann, Trinity Christian Academy Principal Rev. Charles Clark, Christ Episcopal Day School Vice-Chairman Rev. Charles Johnson, Keller, Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary President Lora Nottman, Bay Superintendent of Education J.D. McCulloch, and St. Augustine Seminary Rector Rev. Francis Theriault.

Mabus noted that Mississippi has the lowest per capita income level in the United States and stated, "Education and economic prosperity are like Siamese twins. We won't ever meet our economic potential until our educational needs are met."

He reported the state ranked 47th in education expenditures, its military service applicant rate is the highest in the nation due to intelligence test failure and Mississippi per kindergartens will initially cost the state $23-$25 million.

Although he would not reveal how the state would fund the new program, he said the governor will soon announce a plan which would not increase sales and income taxes.

Coincidentally, the state is now considering leasing offshore property for oil production which could annually add millions of dollars to Mississippi's coffers.

Mabus cited 19 bills seeking public kindergarten establishment since 1941 have failed passage in the legislature.

He also noted that about half of Mississippi's Youth Court cases involve school dropouts and one-half of the Parchman State Penitentiary inmates are illiterate.

The governor's assistant reported it costs some $7,000 annually to house a Parchman inmate.

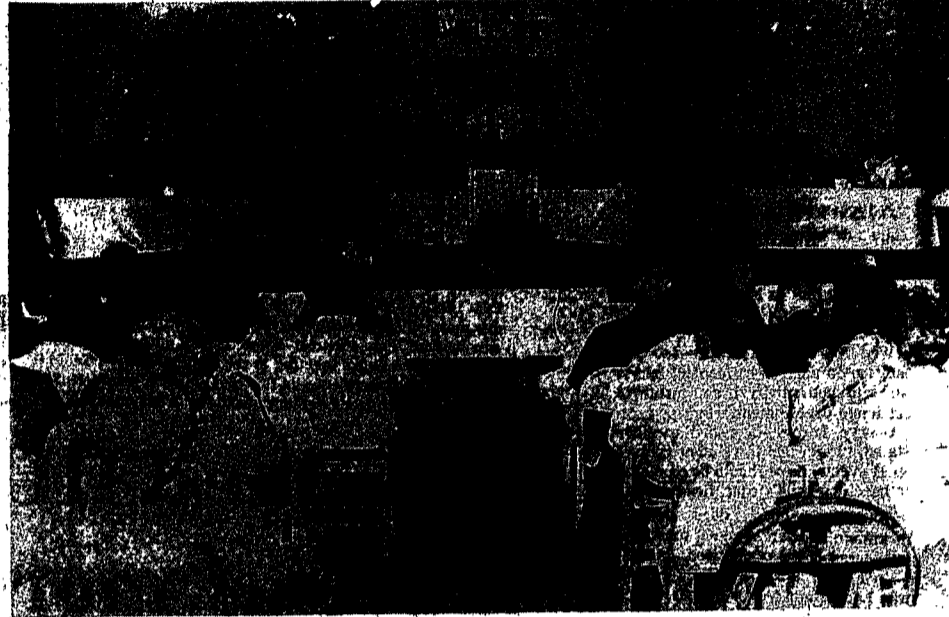

"If you think education is expensive, you ought to consider the cost of ignorance," Mabus concluded.

Smith urged public support of Winter's proposals and said supporters of other programs will oppose reductions in other programs to aid the education programs.

Clark expressed '100 percent' backing for the governor's propositions, but also cited parents as key factors in promoting education in their families and communities.

Johnson, endorsed public kindergartens by stating that three-to-five year-olds learn more in those years than in any other period in their lives. Keller backed mandatory education by stating, "...this will produce effective citizens and develop them to their full potential."

Helzmann hopes that all young citizens will be able to 'enjoy kindergarten.' Theriault said, "These programs must start as soon as possible."

Foes of nuclear disposal form chapter in Hancock

By BRENT MACEY
The possibility Mississippi may be chosen as an international dumping ground for nuclear waste was cited as the most critical issue ever faced by the state.

Stan Flint, coordinator for Citizens Against Nuclear Disposal, made that assessment of the issue before a group of some 25 people from Hancock County who gathered Monday in the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis to form a branch of that organization here.

Both Flint and Chris Snyder, vice president of the organization, stated they were impressed and pleased with the large turnout.

They called on the group to show their concern over the disposal issue by gathering more support for a forum planned for Nov. 8 in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum.

"This is the most critical issue the state has ever faced," Snyder said.

"Our goal is to fill the coliseum with at least 10,000 people. The November forum is a lot more important than any Kenny Rogers concert, and at least that many people can come to show their concern for the state," he said.

Flint stated the group is not a radical group "and we're proud of that."

He said the group's purpose is to educate the public on the nuclear waste disposal issue. The idea of organizing was created for that reason, he said.

National and international figures knowledgeable of the nuclear power have been invited and are expected to attend the forum, Flint told the group.

Included is Dr. Edward Teller, "Father of the Hydrogen Bomb"; Dr. Karl Z. Morgan, father of health physics of Georgia Institute of Technology; R. Buckminster Fuller, Dr. George Wald, Jonathan Callender, and Dr. Rustum Roy.

Flint said both sides of the nuclear waste issue will be presented at the forum. Three doctors are expected to present favorable arguments and three are expected to be opposed.

Victor Frankiewicz, a Bay St. Louis resident who organized the meeting, said the group is 'confident' that once the public becomes aware of facts from both sides of the issue they would realize the dangers of disposing of nuclear waste in Mississippi.

Also invited by the forum are representatives of the Department of Energy, and Battelle Memorial Institute, the firm contracted by DOE to find the most suitable dumping location for nuclear waste.

Flint said he was not sure if the DOE representatives would attend.

He stated the DOE representatives have consistently denied ever meeting or discussing the issue with the organization.

He informed the group of the history associated with two sites in Perry County being chosen by the DOE as receptacles for dumping nuclear waste.

Both sites are centered on top a salt domes named the Richton Salt Dome and the Cypress Creek Dome.

The domes are geographical formations of salt, 'sticking up' underground like thumbs, Flint said.

He stated Battelle recommended the domes as the number one and number three most likely locations to be used as receptacles for dumping nuclear waste.

Flint labeled the studies by Battelle 'insufficient' and said they did not consider socio-economic factors or

Gulfview teachers recommend contact sports guidelines

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Teachers at Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshire are recommending the Hancock County School Board adopt district-wide regulations for youths participating in booster club supported pee-wee football teams.

Kiln man faces traffic, drug charges

A 20-year-old Kiln man faces Harrison County charges of reckless driving, carrying a concealed weapon and felony possession of marijuana following a one-car accident Friday in which he and a passenger were injured.

A Harrison County Sheriff's Department spokesman said Clyde Wayne Lamabe, 20, P.O. Box 425, Kiln, driving a 1980 Ford Torino, passed a witness about 5:30 p.m., going east on North Street in Pass Christian at a high rate of speed.

The Torino failed to make the T-turn at Menz Avenue, left the road and struck two utility poles, breaking one off and knocking a transformer off the other.

The driver received head injuries and his passenger, James S. Lussabe, 18, 371 Woodman Ave., Pass Christian, sustained hand and leg injuries.

Both were transported to Memorial Hospital at Gulfport by Mobile Medical.

The spokesman said a .32 caliber loaded pistol was found on the floor of the car. Also found were four plastic bags of alleged marijuana inside a larger bag.

Charges were lodged against the driver, Clyde Lamabe.

In charge of the case are Sheriff's investigators Capt. Ron Hamilton and Capt. Jimmy Johnson, and auxiliary deputy Al Metz.

Monvel Cuevas, board president, Saturday appointed a committee consisting of Principals William Haddock of Gulfview, James O'Hara of Hancock North Central, and J.D. Padden of Charles B. Murphy Elementary Schools to study the suggested regulations and offer recommendations to establish a district policy for such activities.

The suggested regulations were offered by Haddock at a Saturday board meeting in response to a recent request by Clyde Chlamson in which she asked that her son, a Gulfview fourth grader, be allowed to participate in the football program.

Chlamson's objections came at a previous board meeting after she received a notice from Haddock stating her son could not participate in sports since he is a fourth grade student.

Also at a previous board meeting, several parents requested that booster club players, football players, regulations only require minimum age and weight restrictions.

Haddock's policy was apparently based on a 1979 board policy for school-sponsored competitive sports which included grade level requirements.

Billy Sills, superintendent of education, noted the policy was cited as a Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation deficiency in a recent inspection by representatives of that organization.

To meet association requirements, active school support of interschool contact sports is forbidden in lower grades.

Woodrow Ladner, a board member, said now that the district has earned association accreditation the policy is void.

But Monvel Cuevas, board president stated, "If organizations use our facilities we have to set guidelines... we have to set a policy."

Ladner noted that association and state accreditation requirement regulations offer guidelines for competitive sports activities conducted on school property.

Cuevas told Chlamson, "Your school (Gulfview) has violated this policy." Louis Ladner, a board member, said, "I can't remember a time when fourth grade students played football."

But Chlamson stated that an older son of hers played football when he was in the fourth grade.

Sills reported, "We can't say what teams a local team may play."

Woodrow Ladner said, "It's our responsibility to put some weight guidelines on these sports activities."

Haddock reported, "My teachers are so concerned with the physical and disciplinary requirements that they have formulated a suggested list of regulations for pee-wee football."

The teacher's suggested list requires a physician's certificate stating that a child is physically able to participate in sports.

Consideration of a student's failure to determine eligibility to participate.

An age ceiling of 12-14 years-old.

Full compliance with teachers' homework assignments.

Students with failing grades be placed on probation, given a time limit to improve and if not, the child must discontinue sports activities;

—Students to follow discipline measures issued by teachers and coaches;

—Proper classroom behavior at all times.

Haddock said teachers feel contact sports including fourth through sixth grade students are 'detrimental' to the George Ladner, a board member stated, "I feel that if we allow contact sport events, these should be regulated to benefit a child's education."

Woodrow Ladner added that a maximum player weight must be considered in the regulations.

Fred Bilbo, a school patron, agreed with Ladner and requested that an age requirement also be considered by the committee.

Waveland HUD tenants may pay more water costs

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Federal budget cuts may soon force residents in government-owned low-income housing in Waveland and throughout the United States to individually bear an increased portion of monthly water service costs.

Lucien Cox, city attorney and judge, revealed at a Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting Tuesday night the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is asking cities to assume utility service responsibility for HUD's 75 housing units in that city.

"What this amounts to is HUD wants the individual tenants to pay all their own utility bills," he stated.

Barbara Rappold, city clerk and an alderman, explained all Waveland Housing Authority units for low-income families are all served by a central water meters.

HUD developments in Waveland are located on Camille Circle and Rue de laSalle and Russell Drive with one water meter for each street. Individual gas and electric meters are already in service for those areas.

Cox reported the monthly water costs are now divided by the authority among all tenants each month as a part of rental fees.

Karen Ladner, authority manager, Wednesday explained that HUD gives each tenant a monthly electric and gas allowance based on the size of a dweller's residence which is deducted from monthly rental fees.

She said tenants pay for the amount of gas consumed which exceeds the varying monthly allotment, but tennants presently pay their own electric bills.

Longo estimated the city would be forced to install 75 additional water meters which would cost some $5,000.

Rappold also noted that each tenant would be required to pay deposit fees for water, gas and sewer services totalling about $200.

Ladner said the local authority will ultimately decide a method to best meet tenant, HUD and city needs.

She reported that Bay St. Louis has already begun installing individual water meters for its housing authority residences.

The manager said that utility costs present the greatest problem in meeting HUD budgeting guidelines.

But she predicted HUD may increase utility allocations to partially offset dwellers increased utility costs.

Abuse possible in child injury

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A 3-year-old boy with both arms broken remained in Hancock General late Wednesday as authorities investigated the possibility of child abuse, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson has personally been working on the case with Investigator Delbert Seay and the county Welfare Department, since Sunday morning when the child was admitted to the hospital after allegedly being run over by a vehicle at the Necaise Crossin Gumbo Festival.

Peterson said they are trying to determine whether the child was run over by a vehicle or abused.

Peterson said the child's mother, Konne Jellison, was charged with child neglect after the 12:30 a.m. Sunday incident when Addison Bounds Jr. allegedly drove over the child who was wrapped in a sleeping bag in the parking area of the festival grounds. Bounds, 30, was charged with aggravated assault. Both have been released on $1,000 bond.

Peterson stated, "It is a possibility that the child was not run over. He could have been abused."

Peterson said, "The doctor who examined the child doesn't feel he was run over by a car. He said the breaks in the child's arms do not look like they were caused by such an accident. Both arms were broken below the elbows."

Mrs. Jellison had left her son on the festival grounds while she went several miles away to make a telephone call, Peterson said.

Mrs. Jellison, 23, is a resident of 404 State St., Bay St. Louis and Bounds' address is listed as Rt. 3, Box 114, Bay St. Louis.

Republicans launch fall 'support Reagan' campaign

Mike Retzer, chairman of the Mississippi Republican Party reports the state GOP is engaged in a six-week fall campaign to organize and demonstrate support for President Reagan.

The climax of the campaign will occur on Nov. 12, with a "Salute to President Reagan" dinner at the Mississippi Trade Mart in Jackson.

The President's chief of staff, James Baker, will be the special guest.

"We are very fortunate to have Jim Baker as our guest on the night we salute our President," Retzer said. "Nobody is closer to President Reagan than Jim Baker."

The campaign will also include a drive through the state by Congressman Jack Kemp (R-N.Y.) on October 12. Following a non-partisan event in Jackson, Kemp will attend the "Economics for America" rally at the Gulf Coast Junior College at Gautier.

This will be the beginning of a Mississippians for the President Speakers Bureau, which will send party spokesmen to towns and cities across the state to speak on behalf of the President and his programs.

A series of fall forums is also planned to be held in seven cities across Mississippi.

The cities and dates are Oct. 19 in Columbia; Oct. 20 in Laurel; Oct. 22 in Oxford; Oct. 23 in Greenwood; Oct. 27 in Hattiesburg; Oct. 29 in Natchez; and Nov. 2 in Jackson.

enough geographical data. People at the meeting questioned why no elected officials were present at the Monday meeting.

The Bay St. Louis City Council, the Waveland Board of Aldermen, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the county board of supervisors have all gone on record opposing the site locations.

Snyder asked the group to write letters to their elected officials, including the governor, senators, United States and state representatives asking for their support in blocking the DOE's attempts to continue testing at the site.

Snyder said the tests are expected to resume in November of this year.

The test will include a $172 million drilling operation into one of the domes in preparation for the actual disposal operation, Flint said.

He said he felt the government would be reluctant to reconsider ever changing the site location once that work began and the money had been invested.

Indians to exhibit talents and culture

The talents and culture of the Choctaw Indian tribe will be the focus during the annual Indian Festival Weekend, October 10-11, at the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians in Natchez.

During the two-day festival, sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, the Choctaws will demonstrate their skills at playing the exciting stick-ball game, performing high-plains Indian as well as traditional Choctaw dances, and creating beautiful handmade crafts.

Stick-ball, a traditional Choctaw game, is a fast-paced and demanding team sport which requires athletic agility from its participants.

The exhibition game is scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday.

Dance demonstrations, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, will contrast the colorful and vigorous high-plains dances with the more subdued, traditional Choctaw dances.

Throughout the weekend, craft demonstrations will be held and visitors will have the opportunity to purchase handmade items.

Several thirty-minute Indian and anthropological filmstrips are scheduled for showings both Saturday and Sunday in the auditorium of the Grand Village visitor center.

The public is cordially invited to attend the event, free of charge. For more information, call the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians at 466-6502.

Housecleaning tips offered

Is housecleaning a chore for you? If so, there may be some good reasons why it is.

Look around your house and see if any of the following are your problems, suggest Frances Fortenberry, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service housing specialist.

—Not enough time? Is the problem not enough time or the way you use your time? Do you linger too long before the television or over a cup of coffee? Time can slip by.

If this is your problem, allot yourself a limited amount of TV or coffee time. Or, while you are watching TV, do chores such as ironing, dusting, picking up and straightening up a room.

—Is the problem a lack of storage or lack of organization of your storage? It is much easier to keep your house neat if you have a place for everything and encourage your family to return things to their proper locations.

"Storage can be organized and arranged to provide more room, and make it easier to find things," Miss Fortenberry says. "Storage can be added in unusual ways, too, and often at minimum expense. Look for ways to improve your storage."

—Do you have too much furniture and accessories, so much that it is hard to clean? Perhaps you should unclutter your house to make cleaning easier.

—Do you keep extra outside dirt outside? Learn to reduce the need to clean by keeping as much dirt out as possible. Use door mats, change shoes before entering the house and clean entrances more frequently, she suggests.

—Can you prevent other unnecessary cleaning or make it easier? Spills or stains are much easier to clean up if done immediately and not allowed to soak in, dry and harden. Dishes are easier to wash if attended to soon after a meal rather than when the food has dried.

—Have you organized your housework? Organization makes any job easier and faster. A list of things to be done helps you to determine which chores come first, Miss Fortenberry says.

—Do you lack the skills or know-how to make housework less of a chore? "Proper tools and supplies are important, but your knowledge and skill make the biggest difference. You can learn shortcuts and effective, easier ways to clean house," she says.

"An Extension Homemakers club in your county is one place to learn. An Extension home economist can give you literature, ideas and other help. Call her," she adds.

Women's magazines and newspaper articles often feature information that would make housecleaning easier. You don't have to dread housecleaning. With a little planning, it can be easier.

Echo endorses Mindpower Week

This week more than 1,100 colleges and universities in all 50 states are celebrating one of our country's greatest natural resources — mindpower.

Mississippi colleges and universities are observing National Mindpower Week in order to focus attention on the importance of higher education.

The "America's Energy is Mindpower" grassroots communications campaign is being conducted by colleges and universities that belong to a Washington, D.C., based association, the Council for Advancement and Support of Education.

All across the nation, campus seminars, billboards, poster, publications, TV and radio spots, advertising space, and fair and library exhibits, carry the same Mindpower message.

We give our whole-hearted support to this campaign. Too often, we take higher education for granted. Too often we forget that higher education benefits all of us, not just the person who receives a college degree.

If Alexander Graham Bell hadn't taken his college sabbatical, we might not have the telephone.

He is just one of many campus-based researchers who have made life better and safer for us.

Movies, charcoal for your backyard barbecue, television, synthetic rubber, the "wonder drug" aureomycin, nuclear reactors, electronic computers, stannous fluoride, and DNA were all born on college campuses.

We all benefit from these discoveries and will benefit in the future from the campus research going on right now.

But what about the job question, you say? Is it true that many college-educated people are finding it harder to find suitable work these days?

No one says a college degree is an automatic ticket to success. But it's very good start.

Several years ago, noted economist and educator, Dr. Howard R. Bowen, did a study to find out whether a college degree was worth the major investment of time, money, and study. His report, "Investment in Learning," concluded that yes, a degree is worth the investment. With documentation, he proved that college graduates:

1. Start their careers with higher salaries and earn more over their lifetimes. They're also less likely to be unemployed because they can adapt more easily to changing economic conditions;
2. Are more likely to be happy, well-adjusted, and less rigid and dogmatic. They have a higher ability to cope with life's problems because they know themselves better and are able to see more options;
3. Tend to be better citizens, are better informed, and are more likely to participate in community affairs and vote;
4. Have generally happier family units. They usually devote more thought, time, energy, and money to childrearing;
5. Are usually healthier.

Bowen also found that America's economic progress and performance was due in large part to the contributions of its college-educated citizens.

So the evidence is there. We don't say that everyone needs to go to college. But we do say that all of us owe a great deal to colleges and universities and their graduates.

Higher education deserves our support. This week, we join Mississippi colleges and universities, and all of the other colleges and universities in this country in celebrating a valuable American commodity — mindpower.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

During recent and pending shortages of several food items and the higher prices that are soon to follow, the term "elastic" was used. What exactly does this mean? About Stretched Too Far?

Dear ASL: Elastic, in this case, refers to the flexibility of consumer demand. It is usually based on price, but it can be based on quality.

Elasticity means that demand goes down as prices increase. Inelasticity, on the other hand, means there is little change in demand as prices increase or decrease.

Several years ago lettuce prices showed an elastic demand as consumers in many instances stopped buying when prices went to $1.25 and higher a head.

Coffee, however, showed a more inelastic demand when prices almost tripled during the recent shortage.

The apparent elasticity of the principle may be somewhat misleading, for at first glance it would seem the distinction could be reduced to "elasticities" as opposed to "inelasticities."

But these labels don't uniformly apply — one man's trash is another man's treasure. Highly suspect to many consumers is the predictable reaction of higher prices attracting new suppliers to the market place.

But the phenomenon of price level affecting supplies of goods is age old. True, there may be some exceptions in reserve by opportunists, waiting, or even storing up in anticipation of a market.

There are, however, many other factors. For instance, when supplies become inelastic, the price of the goods tends to rise.

Supplies in commerce areas are usually inelastic. This is due to the fact that the supply of goods is usually fixed.

It is this inelasticity that previously mentioned distinction could be reduced to "elasticities" as opposed to "inelasticities."

REMAINS OF TRAILER—Hancock Deputy Fire Marshall Kenny Fayard checks the remains of small trailer destroyed by woods fire Sunday afternoon in Shoreline Park. Fayard reports the origin of the fire is under investigation. Two homes were saved during the blaze by firefighters setting backfires in the marshy area. Fayard said 15 members of the Hancock County Firemen's Association fought the blaze driven by changing winds for over three hours before bringing it under control. Two firefighters required first aid provided by Mobile Medic for smoke inhalation. Billy Field, administrator for the East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, issued an urgent plea for extreme caution especially during the dry weather. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

CLOSE CALL—This Bayou View Drive residence in Shoreline Park narrowly escaped burning down Sunday afternoon due to a woods fire. East Hancock, Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Clermont Harbor firefighters fought the blaze for several hours to protect the home. Chief Kenny Fayard, Hancock Deputy Fire Marshall, reports the origin of the fire is under investigation. One small trailer was destroyed by the blaze and another home had to be saved by firefighters setting backfires in the marshy area. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland officials snick to law. No sewerage, no water

Dear Sir: We feel compelled to answer a letter published in your newspaper issue of October 1, 1973, by Mr. John Hayward in that letter Mr. Hayward states that he has been refused city water. In that letter he states the only reason he can think of for the city officials to refuse to deliver water to him is political.

This statement by Mr. Hayward is totally in error.

City Ordinance No. 60, enacted in 1973, provides that all citizens must connect to the sewerage system whenever a sewer line is available. The sewer line was available on the Beach Road in December of 1973. As of this date Mr. Hayward has never complied with that ordinance and has never connected to the city sewerage system.

Prior to this date Mr. Hayward has been requested to comply with the City Ordinance, however, he refused. City Ordinance No. 60 enacted on January 30, 1973, provides that the city may cease rendering city utility services to any citizen who does not comply with the requirements to connect to the sewerage line. Therefore, as you can see, Mr. Hayward has been in violation of the city ordinance for many months. We would not be doing our jobs as public officials if we permitted Mr. Hayward to continue to live in a septic tank while he refused to connect to the sewerage system.

The vast majority of the citizens of the City of Waveland have fulfilled their obligation under the law and have connected to the sewerage system. In many instances this has been a great financial sacrifice to those involved.

We know of instances where retired persons on Social Security have spent money from their life savings in order to comply with the law and others who have had to make loans against their property in order to connect to the sewerage system.

It would be grossly unfair for us to assist Mr. Hayward in evading the law while other citizens have made such tremendous sacrifices to comply with the law.

Mr. Hayward leaves the impression that he is unable to connect to the sewerage system because he has no access to the sewerage line. It seems rather strange to us that when Mr. Hayward was forced by necessity to find a way to connect to the city sewerage system he received a right-of-way from his neighbor almost immediately.

We feel that if Mr. Hayward had made a sincere effort to obtain an easement for the sewerage line, he would have been successful. It is interesting to note that an individual in the same alleged predicament as Mr. Hayward has obtained an easement from his neighbor and has been connected to the city sewerage system a long time ago.

We're from the foregoing that it is obvious that the reasons that Mr. Hayward has not been connected to the city sewerage system is not due to politics, but due to his own unwillingness to meet the requirements of the City's ordinances.

Very truly yours,

Bits in pieces

It was a tremendous football game in Tiger Stadium Friday when St. Stanislaus and Bay High performed before a record crowd.

The excitement of the game was felt all over town, and the Tigers ended up the victors, 14-7.

Bay High's Coach Shuffy Smith can be real proud of his Tigers this season. They have won four games out of five and are "for real."

We wish the Tigers well for the remainder of the season and would really like to see them take the conference title.

We understand that Athletic Director Wilmer Seymour told Booster Club members they would not sell a certain number of cokes during the game. If they sold more he would blow up all the balloons for the Homecoming at the school.

We understand he has a big job of blowing up balloons. Good luck, Mr. Seymour.

We goofed by picking Stanislaus over Bay High and guess we should have listened to Nolan Lader who kept telling us that the Tigers were going to be winners.

This Friday the Bay High Tigers will get a real test when they tangle with Long Beach. Long Beach is at home, so the Tigers will have their hands full.

The Hancock North Central Hawks will visit St. John. The Hawks topped East Central in Homecoming, 20-14 last Friday.

St. Stanislaus will have Diberville as visitors in Rock-A-Chaw stadium. Diberville has been very good in recent years, so the Rock-A-Chaws will have to play a good game to come out on top.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will tangle with East Central in the Park. The Pirates edged Stone County last week by one point and should show East Central.

We hope everyone will be out Friday night for the 7:30 p.m. Kick-off and support the team of their choice.

A full day of activities was planned for Saturday by the Hancock North Central Elementary PTA.

An eight-man football jamboree starts at 9 a.m. in the Hawk Stadium topped with a homecoming dance at 7 p.m. in the Nathan Neale Arena.

Miss IN Cavanaugh, probably the most active parent teacher organization in the county, has a full day of activities planned for Saturday.

A loan fund to be made with a loan bank to provide all the money needed to help the county's poor families buy food, clothing and other necessities.

We're glad to hear about the help of the parent and teacher organizations in the county. We hope they will be able to help the poor families in the county.

Educational Finance Commission goes broke:

Plans for more classrooms temporarily dead

By BRENT MACKEY

The Hancock County School Board received notice that the Mississippi Educational Finance Commission can no longer help county school districts fund construction of new school buildings.

The EFC formerly sold bonds with ceiling rates at seven percent interest to finance construction. That interest rate is the highest which the EFC can charge by law.

Money from those bond sales was used to pay $15 per square foot for construction of new buildings.

"Since interest rates on school bonds have been at a 9 to 10 percent level for all of 1981, we have been unable to sell these bonds," Frank Lopez, EFC executive secretary, told the EFC said.

"That means, of course, that our primary source of funds has been temporarily eliminated. And the Commission is, in fact, without funds to approve new projects," he added.

The news created even more of a problem for the Hancock School district, which has plans to build 16 additional classrooms in the county.

Total project cost is estimated to be $900,000.

Of that money, $225,000 was expected from EFC. $250,000 was planned on being obtained through a recent 2 mill tax, and the remaining $225,000 would be paid through the district's.

The district is already faced with contradictory opinions of whether it can use 2 mills already assessed to county tax payers to repay a $250,000 loan for the construction.

A recent law passed by the state legislature does not allow any government body's budget to increase more than 10 percent over the previous year.

The law requires any increase above 10 percent be held in an escrow account where it cannot be used.

In addition, the money in the escrow account will be subtracted from the current year's budget. Next year's budget will be allowed to be increased only ten percent above that figure.

Whether the two mill tax will increase the school board's budget by more than 10 percent is a controversial issue.

Louie Ladner, school board member, said the $250,000 could be used for construction of the classrooms since it would not be considered an increase in the budget.

He stated he talked with Purcell of the State Audit Department.

Ladner said, "He (Purcell) said the two mills would be considered a bonded indebtedness and would not be held against our fiscal budget."

Walter Gex III, attorney for the county board of Supervisors stated the opposite.

He said he talked with Tommy Dyon of the State Audit Department. According to Gex's interpretation of that conversation, the two mills will be considered as part of the school board's budget as based on ad valorem taxes," he said.

He said the increase would put the school board way over the 10 percent increase as allowed by law.

Gex said the supervisor's would have the responsibility of placing any money over the 10 percent increase in an escrow account.

He said the supervisors have been given notice by the attorney general's office to withhold any money over the legal 10 percent increase.

In terms of the school board, Gex estimated that would begin in the early part of next year when ad valorem taxes begin to be collected.

"Before we do that though, we will have to get a ruling from the state attorney general," Gex said.

He said he would prefer the school board request the ruling, but noted the supervisors would request that ruling if the school board did not.

He said the county would be liable if the law is not followed.

He said he felt the new law was "unfair" in its assessing the supervisor's with responsibility of being the watch dog over the school district.

He said the board had no choice in deciding whether or not to assess the millage.

Although the board approved assessing the two mills, only a petition signed by 20 percent of the registered voters could have forced the issue to a vote.

That petition never materialized and the supervisors were required to approve the millage.

"We have no authority, so why the responsibility," Gex said.

Pearlington ship captain credited # with saving Kentucky man's life

Capt. Kenneth LeSueur of Pearlington, master of Lykes Steamship Company's S. S. Solon, is credited with saving the life of a passenger who suffered a heart attack on a recent voyage in the Mediterranean.

The passenger, Shelby McCallum, of Benton, Ky., was a former speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives.

He was traveling on the Lykes freighter with his wife when the attack occurred.

"We had left Oporto, Portugal, bound for Ashdod, Israel, and were 24 hours out of Ashdod when Mrs. McCallum came up and said her husband was very sick," Capt. LeSueur recalled.

"I had been talking with a doctor who had been put on an oxygen unit outside Mr. McCallum's room and to get some nitroglycerin tablets."

"I went to see Mr. McCallum. He was lying on his bed, holding his chest, and saying he was having terrific chest pains. I got him into a sitting position and got busy trying to calm him down."

"We gave him nitroglycerin tablets and rubbed for an ambulance to meet us in port, and speeded up the ship. When we reached Ashdod, Mr. McCallum was admitted to a hospital."

Doctors at Kaplan Hospital in Ashdod said Capt. LeSueur's cool handling of the situation probably saved McCallum's life.

LeSueur said emergency medical care training he received at the Maritime Institute for Training and Graduate Studies (MITAGS) operated by the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, proved invaluable in helping the stricken passenger.

After resting in the hospital at Ashdod, McCallum and his wife flew home to Kentucky, where he underwent triple-bypass heart surgery.

Mrs. McCallum wrote Capt. LeSueur a letter thanking him and Lykes' agents, especially Rom Nassim of Ardo Shipping, Ltd. for help "that went far beyond what could be expected."

Nassim and his wife arranged housing for Mrs. McCallum near the Ashdod hospital and helped with financial and other arrangements. Max Weisler, also of Ardo, arranged air transportation for the McCallums back to the U.S.

In appreciation of Capt. LeSueur's help, McCallum arranged for Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown to send the captain a signed proclamation declaring him an honorary Kentucky colonel.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

People are not the only scarce resource in the U.S. today. Human energy, time, ideas, creativity and material resources are also scarce.

When you have defined your values, you should develop resources to meet them. And we need to manage them carefully.

Whenever there is a sudden change in the availability of a resource, the situation is likely to become a problem. Examples of such a change is the increase of demand for a homemaker's time when she takes a job outside the home.

When a problem arises, families find that new ways of managing must be implemented. Priorities must be reviewed. New goals, more in line with current circumstances should be set, and perhaps different alternatives selected in managing the scarce resources.

When time is scarce, homemaking activities must be evaluated, which ones are of sufficient value to be retained? Which ones can be shifted to other family members? How will the family manage?

The management process begins with a review of what is of value to the family. While some values have concrete goals, such as conserving fuel and saving money, other values are less concrete. Increasing communication within the family and encouraging creativity, expanding the beauty of the home and its surroundings are also important and must be taken into consideration.

After you have defined your values, you should develop resources to meet them. And we need to manage them carefully.

Many managerial decisions involve the use of money. For example, as the price of gasoline has risen, many families must take money from other categories to pay for gasoline or buy less gas.

Better planning of trips with the car might require a change of habits to decrease the number of miles driven. Buying a smaller or more fuel-efficient car would require a capital investment in order to use less gasoline. For a commuting family moving closer to the job, the school would mean accomplishing the objective through less driving.

ETV Briefs

VIOLIN MYSTERY
A "Nova" documentary makes public for the first time the pioneering research of a Wisconsin physicist who may have found the key to the secret of the great violins created by Stradivari and his contemporaries.

"The Great Violin Mystery" can be seen at 8 p.m. Sunday, October 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The old, classic violin, created by Italian master craftsmen produce a sound with a brilliance and richness of tone that no modern-day instrument can equal. Experts have been baffled as to what causes their uniqueness: wood, varnish, shape, patterns of motion?

Twenty years ago, William Fry, a high-energy physicist at the University of Wisconsin and an amateur violinist, became intrigued by the mystery of the violins created more than 200 years ago by a handful of artists living in and around the Italian town of Cremona.

Destroying countless violins in the process, Fry conducted hundreds of experiments in his cellar to help him to understand how the instrument produces sound.

"Nova" follows Fry as he demonstrates his relentless and unconventional research methods by using a magnet, a hot air blower and even an oven in his quest.

Although he has not yet crafted a Stradivari-quality violin, Fry has made discoveries that may lead to the break the musical world has been waiting for.

"Nova" is closed-captioned for the hearing-impaired.

OTHELLO
Internationally acclaimed actor Anthony Hopkins stars as "Othello," the noble Moorish general in the opening presentation of "The Shakespeare Plays" at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 12, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Othello's statecraft and military skills could not save him from betrayal and jealousy in his own marriage. Othello, written by William Shakespeare, is the treacherous Iago in the four-hour production directed by Dr. Jonathan Miller.

CAKE DECORATING

Now that the weather is getting cooler so our icing doesn't melt in the tube, we can wait our cake decorating classes.

The series will meet each and every Tuesday evening, 7 p.m., for six weeks starting October 15.

A $5 registration fee will cover the cost of decorating supplies and demonstration materials used by the instructor.

Each student will be responsible for bringing a cake each week to practice on. Classes will be held in the Extension Auditorium.

To guarantee you a spot in the class, you must pre-register and pay your $5 fee. As there are a limited number of spaces available, register early.

PINE NEEDLE BASKETS

For those of you who have already registered for the class on October 12, 8:30 a.m. - noon, at the Agriculture Building Auditorium, do not forget to bring: cured pine needles; a thimble and a tapestry needle if you have one.

Tapestry needles and raffa will be available to you at cost during the workshop.

We have 30 people registered. Looks like we will have a great time learning to make pine baskets.

SAVE ENERGY

This is the perfect time to start planning for the cold winter months ahead.

Minor adjustments in your decorating could save many dollars over the season.

Decorating to Save Energy will be presented by Mrs. Teele Dale, area extension specialist on Wednesday, Oct. 21, 10-11:30 a.m., at the Bay St. Louis Library, US-90.

Mrs. Dale will discuss furniture arrangements, window treatments, and use of accessories, and how light color and texture affect energy consumption.

The program is free and open to the general public. No registration is required.

COUNTY FAIR

The Fair will be held October 22-31. Fair Books are available from this office.

I hope each of you plan to take part. Think of the foods you canned, garments made, needlework, paintings and crafts you have done in the last twelve months.

Gather the best of these items to fit into as many categories as possible and enter them.

Not-possible exhibits will be checked in Monday evening, 6-8 p.m., and Tuesday, 1-3 p.m.

WORKERS NEEDED

We are looking for a few good workers to help with our home-making exhibit during the Fair. If you would like to donate a few hours of your time, call me at 467-5464.

Hancock Bank participating

in SBA program

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) reports Hancock Bank is participating in a special program to amplify and speed loans to small businesses.

SBA Administrator Michael Cardenas said the agency plans to inaugurate a second special lending program under which banks will be delegated all loan-making and most servicing and liquidation decisions involved in a loan made by the bank and then guaranteed by SBA.

Cardenas said the actions are in line with my determination to get the private sector more involved in the program.

By assuming more loan authority and responsibility to private lenders, under overall supervision of our Agency, we can help more small businesses than ever before, use Agency resources and funds to greater advantage and cut down on paperwork and time-consuming decisions," he added.

Maggio is new KD pledge

Millaps College student Mary Maggio of Waveland has pledged the Kappa Delta sorority.

Mrs. Maggio, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Maggio, is a freshman.

Four county boxers score tournament wins

BKW BOXERS—Chuck Karl, left, won a tournament championship in Mississippi City with victories Saturday and Sunday in a USA Amateur Boxing Federation event sponsored by the Gulfport Boxing Club. Also representing the Bay-Kill-Waveland Boxing Club in the tourney were Wayne Karl and

Tony Guerrero, both of whom were defeated in finals matches, and Timothy Yarbrough who lost in a quarter-finals bout. The BKW boxers will participate in a USA-ABF event at Ocean Springs Junior High School Saturday night. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

By EDGAR PEREZ

Four Hancock area boxers won championship bouts in a Gulfport Boxing Club two-day event Saturday and Sunday in the Mississippi City Elementary School gym.

Four others were defeated in finals matches and a fifth participant lost in quarter-final action.

Winning finals victories in the USA Amateur Boxing Federation-sponsored tourney were Chuck Karl of Bay-Kill-Waveland Boxing Club; David and Eddie Bennett of Pearlington, representing the Gulfport Boxing Club; and James Bourgeois of the Hancock Boxing Club.

Karl scored a unanimous decision in Sunday's finals over David Tatum of Chatham, La. Karl scored a "walk-over" or forfeit victory Saturday over Robert Pavolini of Hancock Boxing Club.

David Bennett, 13, a sixth-grader at C. B. Murphy Elementary School, won a tournament trophy in the 100-pound intermediate class with decisions over Terry Thomas of Chatham and Sidney McBride of Thibodaux, La.

Eddie Bennett, 10, fighting in the 80-pound class, scored a walk-over win against Kevin Goodbell of Lafayette, La. Sports for Boys Sunday.

Bourgeois, an 80-pounder, scored his tourney finals win over Kerry David of Ocean Springs.

Losing on a judges' decision in Sunday's finals was Tony Guerrero of the BKW Club. He was outpointed by Brian George of Carencro, La.

Guerrero Saturday defeated Bryan George of LSB in Lafayette.

"Tony was the big surprise of the tournament for us by doing so well despite his lack of experience," said BKW Head Coach John Whisenhunt. BKW's Wayne Karl lost in Sunday's finals on an unpopular decision to Ray Rym of Lake Charles, La.

"Wayne had his opponent ready to go in the second round, but Rym was saved by the bell," the coach reported.

"Wayne definitely landed heavier blows to the body and head and almost pulled it out," Whisenhunt feels.

Another BKW boxer, Timothy Yarbrough, fell victim to a close decision in his quarter-finals match against David Tatum of Lafayette.

"All of our boys went the distance and handled themselves very well in this big tournament," Whisenhunt added.

Willie Davis of Hancock Boxing Club lost in Sunday's finals to Joey LeBlanc of South Lake, Charles.

Amateur boxing this week will be centered at the Ocean Springs Junior High School where the Ocean Springs Boxing Club is sponsoring a USA-ABF sanctioned event. The first bout is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Battered Pirates facing rough homecoming game

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR. with many players topping the 20-pound mark. A battered and bruised Pass Christian High School football team will face the roughhouse East Central High School Hornets in a Friday night homecoming contest in the Francis S. McDonald Pass Stadium.

The Hornets were defeated by the Pirates in a 20-14 Friday night game. LaFontaine, a leading scorer, is expected to be out of the game for two weeks suffering from a bruised kidney. The Pirates' Friday night game is a Pass Christian homecoming game. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

But in the second-to-last play of that game, Pirates split end Timmy LaFontaine was injured. LaFontaine scored twice that evening for the Pirates. St. Lumpkin reported LaFontaine is suffering a bruised kidney, definitely will not play Friday night and probably will not participate in the homecoming contest in which is next week's game.

The head coach said split end LaFontaine was injured for personal fouls and a questionable conduct. LaFontaine in the Friday night game. CRUCIAL STRATEGY—Hancock North Central head coach Irvin Favre, right, assistant coach Tim Favre, and quarterback Mark Santalla, 14, discuss crucial strategy in the final minutes of Hawks' 20-14 winning effort against the East Central Hornets Friday when Irvin Favre employed masterful

Arcement calling signals for Hawks

By EDGAR PEREZ

Former split end Brian Arcement will lead his Hancock North Central teammates from the quarterback slot Friday night against the St. John Eagles of Gulfport.

Arcement this season has been the top receiver in the Hawks' successful passing game.

But he has been drafted by Head Coach Irvin Favre to replace injured quarterback Mark Santalla who sustained a serious ankle sprain in Friday night's homecoming encounter against East Central.

Santalla was injured on the last play of the game and is expected to be sidelined for two to three weeks at the minimum, according to Favre.

"Sprains that bad are as serious as breaks," Favre continued, adding, "It's possible Mark could be out for the season."

"But I don't like to second guess Mother Nature because you can never tell about these things, he could show up here any day healed enough to play," the coach stated.

Picking up where Arcement left off will be ends Cedric Goff and Rodney Necaise.

The Hawks' new quarterback is a five-foot, ten-inch senior who weighs 160 pounds.

He has been one of the Hawks' top receivers in the HNC loss against East Central and is listed in ninth place among the Deep South Conference's top scorers with 18 points this year.

Favre is likely to place added emphasis on the running of halfback Lydell Curry who is in fourth place among

DEFENSIVE ACTION—Hawkins head coach Brian Arcement, 54, moves in low for the tackle on East Central quarterback Brock Clark in Friday night's 20-14 Hawks' homecoming victory against the Hornets. Assisting on the tackle is HNC tackle Joey Moran (76, Edgar Perez).

Wittman to start against Warriors

By RANDY FOUNDER

St. Stanislaus will be trying to break a 2-game losing streak when they entertain the Thiberville Warriors Friday night in Bay St. Louis.

After starting the season with a 1-1 record, Hancock North Central and Pearl River Central, the Rock-A-Chows dropped low scoring decisions to Long Beach and Bay High.

"Our kids are real optimistic," first year head coach Fred Weems stated. "The Bay High game took a lot out of us. It was our first conference loss and it knocked us out of first place," Weems added.

Thiberville has improved their record to 3-2 with wins over Harrison Central and St. Martin.

The Warriors run a multiple offense and have had excellent results running the Veer.

According to Weems, Thiberville has a good running back, good size on the offensive line, and although they

Bay High facing toughest rival

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay High Tigers will meet the Long Beach Bearcats Friday night in a high school football contest expected to be one of the toughest the Tigers have faced all year.

Head coach Snuffy Smith said Tuesday, "We've got to put the Hawks game behind us and concentrate on this one."

"If we can beat them, we've definitely proven the capability of beating Long Beach," he stated.

The Tigers are now in conference play for the second time this season.

This is the first week the Tigers get a break from playing five consecutive conference games. But Smith said that should not affect the attitude of the players.

"We've got the momentum," he said. "And the athletes want to win."

The Bearcats are coming into the game after suffering a loss last week against Gulfport.

Coach Ladner is one of three USM professors to receive the award three times. He has been with the School's Department of Athletic Administration and Coaching since it was established in 1971. A former head basketball coach at Piquette Memorial High School, the coach has been instrumental in making Southern's coaching program and its students. He presently serves as a basketball specialist and has much to promote the sport here and abroad that he has been called "Mississippi's Ambassador to Basketball." He resides in Hattiesburg with his wife, Peggy. Ann Willoughby Ladner. They are the parents of Kenneth, 18, Kimberly, 16, and Larry, 14, and are active in the community as well as the school. ## NOTICE

Effective October 6, 1981, I will no longer be engaged in the private practice of medicine. I would like to take this opportunity to express to you, my patients, that I consider it a high honor and a personal privilege to have been allowed to render to you the best health care that I was capable of. I wish to each and everyone of you continued good health and the richest of God's Blessings. This community is fortunate to have so many extremely qualified physicians at its disposal for the health care needs. It has been a source of pleasure and a distinct privilege to have had the opportunity of working closely with them for these many years. Your medical records will be available to you at Bay Waveland Clinic for transfer to the physician of your choice. Again, I deeply appreciate the confidence that you have placed in me, by allowing me to minister to your medical needs, which I have, to the best of my ability. Most sincerely, J.B. Levens, M.D.

keeping you in touch

If you are wished you had two sets of hands, you need the new Tele-Taper. Speakerphone from South Central Bell. The speakerphone pictured here lets you have "hands free" conversations. Just attach it to your regular home phone and you can speak and listen from anywhere in a normal sized room. Both hands are free to do other things. And you can move around freely while you talk. Other people in the room can join in the conversation, too.

The Tele-Taper is a hands-free telephone that allows you to talk on the phone without holding the handset. It is designed for use in homes and offices. The device is easy to use and provides clear sound. It is a great addition to any telephone setup. A large number of dancers tried out for positions with the new company.

Dancers selected from the auditions for the new company are: Lisa Montgomery, Heather Philo, Shannon Weatherly, Wendy Fountain, David Pepper, Gavin Rodouin, Lori Buckley, Cynthia Tanner, Kelly Bylscoe and Amy Dilworth.

These dancers will join with previous company members Molly Johnson, Margaret Joseph and Delta De La Fuente and will be the performing company of the Gulf Coast Dance Theatre.

These dancers represent communities of Diamondhead, Ocean Springs, Gulfport, Wiggins, Biloxi and Long Beach.

Choreography for the new company will be done by Ma Black, Merrill Bentucci, Carter, Delta De La Fuente and Christina Backstrom.

Negotiations are in progress for additional choreographers for the December performance.

Apprentice company members were also selected at the Sept. 12 auditions.

This company will serve as the second company of the Gulf Coast Dance Theatre and dancers selected include: Shaun Hale, Nija Koutlik, Lisa Attkins, Elisa Joschim, Kelly McCloskey, Teresa Guerrero, Laura Payne, Mary Ellen Jordan, Shannon Collins, Amber Lower, Kathleen Ford, Theresa Smoot, Roma Graham, Robin Dallen and Sue Jelinski.

The Gulf Coast Dance Theatre will hold company classes and rehearsals at the Magnolia Hotel in Biloxi. The use of this facility has been made possible by the City of Biloxi.

A membership drive will begin in October and the first performance will be Dec. 19 at the Seenger in Biloxi.

Lisa Montgomery is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Montgomery of Diamondhead.

She is a sophomore at Bay Senior High and a member of the Tiger Pride Band.

She formerly danced with the Schroder School of Ballet Dance Theatre in West Virginia before moving to Mississippi in August of 1980.
